About Minnesota State

Minnesota State is the largest single provider of higher education in the state of Minnesota, and the fourth largest system of higher education in the country.

With 30 community and technical colleges and seven state universities, Minnesota State serves 58% of the state’s undergraduate students.

The system was founded in 1995 through the merger of three public higher education systems (community colleges, technical colleges and state universities). It includes 54 campuses in 47 Minnesota communities, serving about 396,000 students, with 120,000 students taking non-credit courses, and customized training programs designed for businesses.

Overall, the system produces 41,700 graduates each year, of whom 81% get jobs in related fields and 80% stay in Minnesota.

Students served include:

- 62,000 Minnesota students of color and American Indian students;
- 48,500 first-generation college students;
- 84,000 low-income students;
- 95,000 students 25 and older;
- 32,000 high school students; and
- 10,000 veterans.

Minnesota State serves more Minnesota students in every one of these categories than all of the other higher education providers in the state combined.

EXTRAORDINARY FACT

Minnesota State has made tremendous progress in the diversification of its workforce and student body.

- Women comprise fully one-half of those in senior leadership positions.
- One-third of the system’s 30 presidents are people of color or American Indian, as are one-quarter of recently hired professional, managers, and administrators.
- One quarter of the students served across the state are students of color or American Indian students - a 61% increase over the past decade.
Governance

The Minnesota State system is governed by a 15-member Board of Trustees, who are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate.

The board is the governing body responsible for: setting the long-term strategic direction and policy (in consultation with the chancellor and presidents); overseeing adherence to policy; monitoring progress in meeting strategic goals; appointing the chancellor and assessing the chancellor’s performance; appointing the presidents, vice chancellors, and director of Internal Audit; setting the operating budget and making legislative requests (in consultation with the chancellor and presidents); and approving labor contracts and other contracts in excess of $1 million.

Strategic Direction

In January 2012, the Board of Trustees adopted a strategic framework. The framework is a statement of our core commitments. It emphasizes the essential role Minnesota State plays in growing Minnesota’s economy and opening doors of educational opportunity to all Minnesotans.

Minnesota State has embarked on a systemwide initiative to deliver on the commitments set forth in the strategic framework. The plan lays out the path to increase access, affordability, excellence, and service by forging deeper collaborations among our colleges and universities to maximize our collective strengths, resources, and the talents of our faculty and staff. Implementation is underway.
